Russians Claim German Advance Will be Fraught With Serious Results to Invaders—Both Armies Heavily Re-enforced in East—Allies Make Sudden and Strenuous Artillery Attack Along Entire Line—Servians Deny Austrian Reports—Khedive on Way to Palestine.

By Associated Press.

London, November 21.—Germany's efforts to crush the great armies of Russia has met with a check, according to Russian sources. Earlier in the week both Berlin and Petrograd reported the German advance over the snow covered fields of Poland, but it is now asserted that this movement has been halted. It is intimated that the latest turn in the campaign is likely to have "decisive consequences for the enemy."

The official Russian report of the capture of a battery at Lodz is interpreted as significant, suggesting a Russian flanking movement. Large reinforcements, it is said, have been thrown in by the Russians. From Berlin, however, came no suggestion of a reverse. The Germans, it is said, are making steady progress, not only in the center but in the north, driving back the Russians from the frontier of East Prussia.

Unofficial advices from the west are to the effect that German reinforcements are still being rushed to the eastern battlefields.

In Belgium the fighting still drags on in a desultory manner. Along the Yser attempts at military activities have been virtually abandoned, largely on account of the weather. At Brussels the temperature is below freezing and an unusually severe winter is feared. The fall of snow has ceased but the abatement of the storm has brought no relief from the hardships of the soldiers in the cold and wet.

Servia has broken her silence to deny the Austrian claims to a great victory. The Serbian legation at Athens, while admitting that the Austrians compelled a retreat from Valjevo, states that the Servians withdrew in good order, without any serious fighting, and that they are now occupying advantageous positions ready to engage the advancing Austrians.

The Khedive of Egypt, who was reported to have cast his lot with the Sultan of Turkey, his spiritual leader, is said to have joined the Turkish forces in Palestine, preparatory to leading an invasion of Egypt.

London, November 21.—The correspondent in Berlin of the Central News has sent the following dispatch via Copenhagen: "All of Germany is in a condition of extreme tension awaiting the result of the great battle on the eastern front. The Russian forces are estimated at 900,000 men.

"The Germans control all the roads to Novo, Georgiewst and Warsaw. The battle centers at Lodz where the Germans and Austrians are in excellent positions, while new Austrian forces are advancing from the south. The Russians are being attacked from three sides."

A German official statement says that the Allies are showing great activity with artillery along most of the entire front. There was great conflict in the reports from Petrograd and Berlin concerning fighting in the east. In Berlin it is said officially that great expectations are entertained of a decisive defeat of the Russians. The conflict spreads over many battlefields, from the farther end of Galicia almost to the Baltic, but the most important fighting is now at Lodz. The German military authorities state that their offensive at Lodz has made progress and that in the region of Plock the enemy is still in flight. Semi-official reports from Petrograd state that the Germans are being opposed successfully. The new attempt on Warsaw, it is said, failed with heavy losses for the Teutonic allies.

A new crop of stories has arisen that the Germans are sending heavy guns and submarines by rail to Belgium, destined for the coast, while other reports declare that long trains capable, all told, of moving 200,000 men, are being prepared to take German reinforcements to the eastern front.

London, November 21.—Important advantages, though not of a decisive nature, are claimed today by the French war office. Germany's new attack, for the supposed purpose of isolating the important fortress of Verdun, is said in the French statement to have been thwarted, at least temporarily. In the Argonne region German intrenchments are reported to have been blown up, while near Verdun, it is said, the forces of the allies have made progress. The French statement indicated how closely the fighting is being pressed.

In certain positions the trenches of the Germans and allies are less than 30 yards apart.

Except for the fighting in the Argonne and near Verdun there is comparatively little activity in Belgium and France. At one point in Belgium a German attack by infantry was made which the French say was immediately repulsed. At other points the French assert that they won the advantage in the artillery duel, which has been the main feature of the fighting since cold, wet weather set in.

MAY DECIDE RECOUNT CASE NEXT TUESDAY

By Associated Press.

Columbus, O., November 21.—It was a general belief Saturday that the Supreme court may hand down a decision as early as next Tuesday in the case of the request of the Anti-Saloon League for an order mandamus the Secretary of State to have a recount of the wet and dry ballots in Cuyahoga, Hamilton, Franklin and Lucas counties.

Representing the dry forces of the state, Wayne B. Wheeler, of the Anti-Saloon League contended before the court that the Secretary of State was clothed with complete authority to order a recount of the ballots, although he admitted that no law existed giving express authority for such action. Former Governor Harmon and Attorney General Hogan represented the state in the proceeding.

MORE LAKE BOATS MAY BE WRECKED

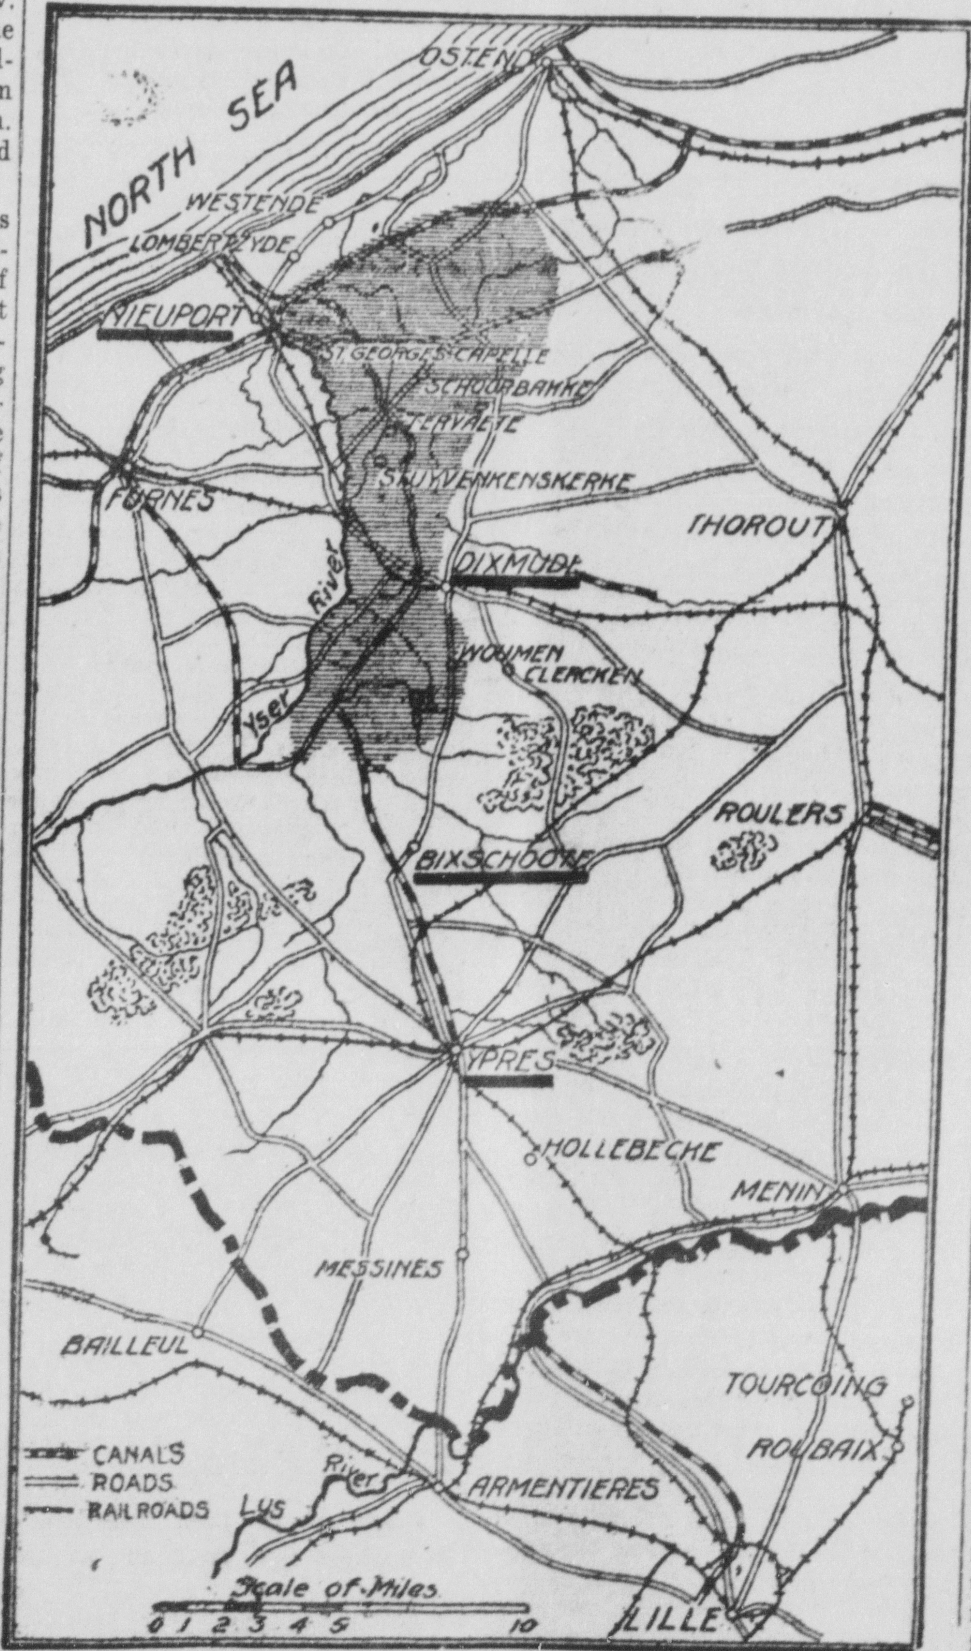

By Associated Press.

Sault Ste Marie, Mich., November 21.—Anxiety as to the fate of the steamer C. F. Curtis and the lumber barge S. K. Marvin, which had not been heard from since they left Baraga, Mich., in the face of a heavy northwestern gale Wednesday morning, was unabated early today.

Eight bodies and quantities of wreckage, washed ashore near Grand Marais yesterday afternoon, told the fate of the lumber laden barge Annie M. Peterson and gave rise to grave apprehension that the Curtis and Marvin had gone down in the three days' storm on Lake Superior.

MAP SHOWING INUNDATED SECTION OF BELGIUM WHERE GERMANS WERE CHECKED

The shaded parts in this map show the inundated district in Belgium. The communique issued by the French government states that the area of inundation along the Yser has been extended to a point three miles north of Bixchoote. This means that about fifteen miles of country from the seacoast to a point halfway between Dixmude and Ypres is covered with water in some places two feet deep, the width of the flooded area varying from about five miles near St. Pierre Capelle to about two miles north and south of Dixmude. Previously the cutting of the dykes had flooded a region probably eleven miles long from north to south, and the new effort to check the Germans has made a new swamp four miles long. While the allies are unable to operate in the inundated district, the main purpose of holding the Germans back from the most vulnerable parts of the Yser is attained.

CAPTAIN CLAIMS ACT NOT HOSTILE

Captain Decker of U. S. Cruiser Tennessee, Explains to His Superiors That Shot From Turkish Fort at Smyrna Was Unfriendly, But So Far As Known Was Not Aimed To Hit U. S. Launch, But To Serve As Warning That Harbor Was Mined And Danger Existed—Investigation To Continue.

By Associated Press.

Washington, November 21.—After an announcement from the White House today that word had come from Captain Decker, of the cruiser Tennessee, that the firing of the Turkish forts at Smyrna upon the cruiser's launch on November 17, was not hostile, Secretary Daniels announced that a portion of Captain Decker's first report had not been made public when, at first, it was considered contradictory. He announced that Captain Decker's dispatch reporting the firing contained the words "act not hostile but unfriendly."

The Navy Department announcement omitted the contradictory phrase, according to Mr. Daniels, in order to verify it, and today came word that the message was correct as originally sent. Secretary Daniels was unable to explain its meaning and said that it seemed to him an expression of opinion by the captain of the Tennessee, without exact knowledge of what took place on shore.

At the White House the statement issued said Captain Decker had reported the firing as not an hostile act, the view being taken that the first part of the phrase meant that the shots were not aimed to take effect, but as a warning, because the port of Smyrna was mined and closed. This was the statement Secretary Tumulty issued after a conference with President Wilson.

The public already knows what happened. Namely, a boat from the Tennessee tried to enter the harbor, a harbor which the Turkish government had declared closed. A shot was fired across her bow to stop her. The captain of the Tennessee reports that it was not intended as an hostile act. A full investigation of the matter is being made and explanations have been asked of the Turkish government. Previous attempts to communicate with Ambassador Morgenthau in Constantinople have led to delays of as much as a week.

BLOODLESS VICTORIES IN MEXICO

By Associated Press.

Mexico City, November 21.—It is learned on the highest authority that General Lucio Blanco will remain in the capital to act as agent through whom the new government will take over the reins. If necessary, he will defend the inhabitants from the attacks of any of the three parties, but the opinion is expressed generally that the adherents of Carranza, Zapata and Villa will treat through General Blanco, thus making the change a bloodless one. General Villa is expected here within a week.

Provisional President Gutierrez with 30 members of the Aguascalientes convention have arrived in San Luis Potosi and General Villa's troops have taken Queretaro without resistance, according to official telegrams today to the state department.

BAN PLACED ON GREEN HIDES

By Associated Press.

Columbus, O., November 21.—Railroads were forbidden to accept any green hides for shipment in Ohio unless the hides have been thoroughly disinfected, in an order issued today by the State Agriculture Commission as a further restriction in the foot and mouth quarantine. Prosecutors of counties where no infection is reported were authorized today to issue permits for the movement of land and one each in Mahoning and Licking counties when this is necessary for the feeding of stock, herds will be killed.

WARRING NATIONS WANT WOOL GOODS

By Associated Press.

New York, November 21.—Agents for the British and French governments announced here today that they were in the market for 1,350,000 wool sweaters, 600,000 stomach bands, 1,600,000 wool gloves and 500,000 pairs of wool socks.

OIL CASE IS SETTLED

Columbus, O., November 21.—State Auditor Donahey secured from officials of the Union Furnace, Oil and Gas Company today an agreement to pay the state $20,000 for oil taken from state school land in Hocking county during the past nine months and to give the state three-sixteenths of all oil produced on the lands in the future. This settlement is expected to establish a precedent for similar settlements and contracts in the future.

EIGHT MORE OHIO HERDS AFFLICTED

Columbus, O., November 21.—Eight more infected herds were found today by inspectors of the State Agriculture Commission. There were two each in Huron, Erie and Rich- to issue permits for the movement of land and one each in Mahoning and Licking counties. 434 animals in these herds will be killed.

ANALYSIS SHOWS CERTAIN SILO CONCRETE IS FAULTY

Claim Made That Insufficient Cement In New Silos Erected During Past Summer Resulted in Fissures Appearing in Walls, Rendering Some Of The Silos Almost Worthless—Pickaway County Firm Offers to Help Make Good the Loss.

An analysis of the cement used in the construction of certain silos in Fayette county, where the silos failed to remain intact but were damaged by cracks appearing in the walls, is said to have shown that insufficient raw cement was used.

Last fall when the work of filling certain silos erected by a firm from Pickaway Co., was started, huge cracks appeared in walls with result that in some instances the "big barrels" were unfit for use, and were abandoned. One silo on the Campbell farm near New Holland, collapsed, causing considerable loss.

Another cement silo near Cooks Station was damaged so that it could not be used, and was abandoned.

On the farm of Commissioner Brown, near Yatesville, the walls of the big silo showed fissures which threatened to spread and cause damage to the ensilage. On the Jesse Welton farm another silo showed indications of the walls cracking, but the fissures did not spread enough to result in great damage.

An investigation was set on foot to ascertain the reason of the silo walls giving away without apparent cause, and samples of the concrete were forwarded to state chemists for analysis, with the result that sample from the Brown silo was found to be short of the raw cement, 57 barrels of cement having been used instead of 80 barrels.

It was known that little trouble from cracking walls had been experienced by other persons who had erected silos in previous years, and a protest was made to the contractors with a result that the contractors have agreed to rebuild or otherwise aid in making good the loss due to faulty cement.

The silo on Commissioner Brown's farm will be replaced by another

EMPIRE THEATER.

There is a beautiful little "story" woven around the character of "Denny", the small cripple lad in "The Calling of Dan Matthews," dramatized from Harold Bell Wright's story by Mr. Wright and Elsbury W. Reynolds.

Denny is a poor little cripple with a deformed and useless limb, and nothing of beauty in his physical appearance, but his disposition is contented, loving and happy. He cultivates his garden and keeps his mother as best he can. His love and deep respect for the preacher, "Big Dan Matthews", is mixed with reverence and awe. He never complains and his one and only wish is to receive knowledge that will enable him to help others.

Through the assistance of Dan Matthews, Danny receives his education and surrounded by his beloved books, cultivates another garden, wherein he bids fair to grow goods for men quite as necessary as cabbages and potatoes.

The character of "Denny" is one of those sweet touches of real life that go to make Harold Bell Wright beloved as an author. There is nothing grand or startling about Denny, he is just a poor little crippled Irish boy, but under the simplicity and pathetic weakness of this sufferer, the author has shown us true heroism—the heroism of suffering, of bearing the burden of helplessness without a murmur, without a complaint. Mr. Wright has made "Denny" one of those delightful character drawings which we find in all of his plays, one of those strokes of the master pen that gently draw our thoughts away from the world's struggles and for a fleeting moment cause us to hear the distant music of the angels in the far-off promised land.

"The Calling of Dan Matthews" will be seen at Empire Theater on Tuesday, November 24, 1914, with a company most meritorious in every respect.

Carranza Chief Leaves Capital Open to the Enemy.

VILLA'S MEN PUSH SOUTHWARD

Rebel Commander Believes He Will Be Able With Little Effort to Compel the Surrender of All Hostile Forces — Shortage of Ammunition Accountable For the Action of Constitutional Commanders.

El Paso, Tex., Nov. 21.—General Alvaro Obregon, one of Carranza's chief commanders of troops, has evacuated Mexico City with his army, leaving only two regiments of cavalry to keep order. This leaves the city open to occupation by General Villa's army, which, according to press dispatches, continues to pour into Queretaro. Holding the capital, and keeping strong forces throughout the north clear to the border, General Villa expressed the belief that he would be able with little effort to compel the surrender of the hostile forces.

Expressing surprise at evacuation of Mexico City and the abandonment of Queretaro by General Pablo Gonzales, officials attached to General Villa's headquarters staff stated that the shortage of munitions of war probably accounted for the action of the Constitutional commanders.

It is reported in Queretaro that General Obregon is moving his army to the west coast of Mexico, leaving the eastern half of the republic to Generals Ales and Candido Aguilar, together with General Venustiano Carranza and his brother, General Jesus Carranza. The eastern commanders will trust to receiving war munitions for the present through Puerto Mexico and through Tampico, which Villa is now endeavoring to capture. The eastern divisions also hold the ports of Piedras Negras and Nuevo Laredo, along the Texas border, through which arms and ammunition can be secured.

The Villa army moving into Queretaro will continue its movement into Mexico City, which should be occupied, if no unexpected resistance develops, not later than Sunday. Every effort will be made, staff officers said, to place a large force of troops in the national capital before any serious disturbance can be developed in the capital. With the entry of Villa's army to the vicinity of the capital a union is expected to be effected with the armies of General Zapata, which are operating east, west and south of Mexico City, and one of which compelled the surrender of the stronghold of Puebla. The eastern Zapata army will move against Cordoba and Orizaba, where General Carranza now has his headquarters. In the meantime Villa's eastern army, under command of General Mariano Servin, is steadily forcing its way from San Luis Potosi, capital of the state of that name, toward the seaport of Tampico, which is held by a large Constitutional garrison.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Riggs's Disease.

The mouth disease that is most often responsible for general ill health is Riggs's disease (Pyorrhea alveolaris), but other forms of inflammation, such as an abscess at the root of the tooth, can also do mischief. The abscess may cause no pain or apparent inflammation, yet it may do a good deal of harm if the pus it forms passes into the blood stream. Among the many diseases which in certain cases can be traced to inflammation of the gums or tooth sockets are dyspepsia, rheumatism, anaemia, high blood pressure with resulting headache or even heart and kidney disease, constipation and asthma. Possibly we may include ulcer of the stomach or intestines, gallstones and appendicitis. Of course, all these conditions are more frequently owing to other causes, but it is well to remember that they can originate in an ill kept mouth. Too often, unfortunately, we see broken and decayed teeth, loose and covered with tartar, in the mouths of persons who are in other respects careful in regard to personal hygiene. When the physician examines such a mouth he usually finds the gums swollen with a blue line along the edge of the teeth, and a very slight pressure will force out pus from between the teeth. As long as such a condition is present it is not much use to treat obscure general symptoms of ill health. Thorough treatment by a competent dentist is the first thing to insist on.

Of Course.

OBREGON IS ON THE MOVE

Carranza Chief Leaves Capital Open to the Enemy.

VILLA'S MEN PUSH SOUTHWARD

Rebel Commander Believes He Will Be Able With Little Effort to Compel the Surrender of All Hostile Forces — Shortage of Ammunition Accountable For the Action of Constitutional Commanders.

El Paso, Tex., Nov. 21.—General Alvaro Obregon, one of Carranza's chief commanders of troops, has evacuated Mexico City with his army, leaving only two regiments of cavalry to keep order. This leaves the city open to occupation by General Villa's army, which, according to press dispatches, continues to pour into Queretaro. Holding the capital, and keeping strong forces throughout the north clear to the border, General Villa expressed the belief that he would be able with little effort to compel the surrender of the hostile forces.

Expressing surprise at evacuation of Mexico City and the abandonment of Queretaro by General Pablo Gonzales, officials attached to General Villa's headquarters staff stated that the shortage of munitions of war probably accounted for the action of the Constitutional commanders.

It is reported in Queretaro that General Obregon is moving his army to the west coast of Mexico, leaving the eastern half of the republic to Generals Ales and Candido Aguilar, together with General Venustiano Carranza and his brother, General Jesus Carranza. The eastern commanders will trust to receiving war munitions for the present through Puerto Mexico and through Tampico, which Villa is now endeavoring to capture. The eastern divisions also hold the ports of Piedras Negras and Nuevo Laredo, along the Texas border, through which arms and ammunition can be secured.

The Villa army moving into Queretaro will continue its movement into Mexico City, which should be occupied, if no unexpected resistance develops, not later than Sunday. Every effort will be made, staff officers said, to place a large force of troops in the national capital before any serious disturbance can be developed in the capital. With the entry of Villa's army to the vicinity of the capital a union is expected to be effected with the armies of General Zapata, which are operating east, west and south of Mexico City, and one of which compelled the surrender of the stronghold of Puebla. The eastern Zapata army will move against Cordoba and Orizaba, where General Carranza now has his headquarters. In the meantime Villa's eastern army, under command of General Mariano Servin, is steadily forcing its way from San Luis Potosi, capital of the state of that name, toward the seaport of Tampico, which is held by a large Constitutional garrison.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Riggs' Disease.
The mouth disease that is most often responsible for general ill health is Riggs' disease (Pyorrhea alveolaris), but other forms of inflammation, such as an abscess at the root of the tooth, can also do mischief. The abscess may cause no pain or apparent inflammation, yet it may do a good deal of harm if the pus it forms passes into the blood stream. Among the many diseases which in certain cases can be traced to inflammation of the gums or tooth sockets are dyspepsia, rheumatism, anaemia, high blood pressure with resulting headache or even heart and kidney disease, constipation and asthma. Possibly we may include ulcer of the stomach or intestines, gallstones and appendicitis. Of course, all these conditions are more frequently owing to other causes, but it is well to remember that they can originate in an ill kept mouth. Too often, unfortunately, we see broken and decayed teeth, loose and covered with tartar, in the mouths of persons who are in other respects careful in regard to personal hygiene. When the physician examines such a mouth he usually finds the gums swollen with a blue line along the edge of the teeth, and a very slight pressure will force out pus from between the teeth. As long as such a condition is present it is not much use to treat obscure general symptoms of ill health. Thorough treatment by a competent dentist is the first thing to insist on.

Of Course.

"Why, centenarians, I believe."

Theorists Are Poor Officials

That only practical men should be chosen as public officials is conclusively demonstrated by forced comparisons every time an impractical theorist is clothed with authority of public office.

The capacity of the theorist in office for harm to the public business never passes unnoticed because it is in evidence nearly every time the discharge of a public duty requiring the exercise of discretion is called for.

Those offices which have to do with the enforcement of the laws designed to protect the public health, seem to be the chief goal of the theorist's ambition.

The fact that they succeed in annexing so many of those positions in the public service is responsible in a great measure for the antagonism with which those provisions are received and the public clamor that goes up every time it is attempted to enforce laws to protect the public health.

The health theorists are all right in their places, but their place is not in the public service dealing with practical men and practical subjects in a practical way. As a rule they know but little about practical business and as a consequence when it comes to the test of applying a perfectly good law to practical conditions they fall miserably short.

The theorist and the practical men of affairs will not mix in every-day life and it is reasonable to suppose that a theorist armed with official power is just that much more distasteful to the practical man. The antagonisms of the one for the other become more intense.

Our laws designed to protect the public health and the enforcement of their provisions would meet with a much more cordial reception and officials and public would co-operate with better results if the law enforcement was placed in the hands of practical men, and the development of the theory on which the law is founded left exclusively with the theorists to work out.

Practical men for practical work should be the rule and a world of confusion and discord between officials and public would be avoided.

Burdette Tried To Be Happy

Robert J. Burdette, preacher, author and humorist, is dead. The end came at his home in Los Angeles Thursday.

The splendid success that "Bob" Burdette made of life, the world-wide reputation which he enjoyed, the immense amount of good he did, the vast numbers of people he made happy and caused to forget their troubles, at least during the time they were under the charm of his voice or engaged in reading some of his writings, is directly attributable to two facts. "Bob" Burdette tried to be happy and he succeeded, and was happy, and he had a splendid wife who insisted on keeping him at the work of making others happy by lecturing and by writing.

Forty years ago when Dr. Burdette was preaching at Peoria, Ill., he began to spend his spare moments at the office of one of the newspapers published in that city.

For a time his work at the newspaper office consisted, as he described it, of "trying to think".

How well he succeeded this great world knows and is better for knowing it. How hard he worked at the task he set for himself and how difficult it was for him to think happy thoughts no one save "Bob" Burdette ever knew.

His case is like many many others in that respect. The great world only knows of and applauds the result of conscientious effort, while the struggle and hardships endured in reaching the goal of one's ambitions is, to a very great extent at least, unknown or unappreciated.

The great preacher, humorist and author must have been blessed with a happy, thoughtful disposition which was capable of producing great and good results by cultivation. Even so, to the everlasting memory of "Bob" Burdette must be accorded by the hundreds of thousands of living people he has made happy and by the hundreds of thousands yet unborn who will read his works and be better and happier for having done so, the credit for doing the best for himself and for humanity with the talents nature so generously bestowed upon him.

How much better the world would be, how much happier humanity would be, if more men would set themselves diligently to work—"trying to think" and trying to be happy.

There is vastly much more of good practical results that flow from thinking happy thoughts than a great many people will acknowledge. Most all men or women can be happy if they will try. "Bob" Burdette's life is proof of that and there are thousands of other human life successes that are proof of that great truth.

The circle brought under the sway of and controlled by an individual who his refused to be gloomy and sad and thinks only of the happy things, is large according to the talents of the particular individual.

"Bob" Burdette's life has been a pleasure to hundreds of thousands and the memory of it should keep constantly in the minds of humanity the great truth which his life proved.

Be happy. You can if you will, and if you will you are bound to help others too.

IF THIS BE ALL.

If this be all, and when we die, we die,
Then life is but a wanton, monstrous lie;
And of the hapless creatures that draw breath,
We, who seem flower and crown, rank far below
The least of living things that does not know

If pain and sorrow are without a scheme,
Dealt out by chance, then like an evil dream
Of some dark fiend, this smiling, gracious earth;
If we that hunger, never shall be filled,
The sooner that our empty hearts are stilled,
The better for them, and their aching dearth.

Yet close, I feel, there wraps us all around,
Some mighty force, some mystery profound,
And, through my doubts and ignorance, I trust
The power that bound with laws the moon and tide,
And hung the stars in heavenly spaces wide,
Must, by their witness, be both wise and just.

Power of Our President Versus That of Royal Rulers.

THE EXERCISE OF THE VETO.

A Right Which May Be Freely Used by Our Chief Executive, but Which Might Shake the Throne of the Monarch Who Dared Assert It.

It has been said that the president of the United States has more real power than most monarchs of Europe. I do not know that I am able to institute an intelligent comparison, because to do that one ought to be quite familiar with the extent of the royal or imperial power to be measured with that of our president, and I have not sufficient knowledge on the subject.

I know something with respect to the real governing power of the king of England, and except in an indirect way the president's power far exceeds that of King George, and I think it is very considerably more than that of the president of France. When, however, one examines the imperial power in governments like Germany, Austria, Italy and Spain the question is much more difficult, and I presume no one would say that the president's power is equal to that of the czar of Russia.

With us a president is elected for four years, and nothing can get him out of office except his death or his resignation—which never comes—or his impeachment. The certainty of his tenure for four years makes our executive administration a little more rigid and less subject to quick changes of public opinion than in the parliamentary countries. I am inclined to think that our system is a good thing for our country, however much parliamentary government may suit the countries where it is in use.

Of course it has this advantage: In a parliamentary government there is a union between the executive and the legislative branches, and they therefore work together, because those who constitute the executive lead and direct the legislation, whereas in the separation of the great branches of the government with us the president represents the executive, congress the legislative and the courts the judicial branch, and the plan of the men who framed the constitution was to preserve these branches separately.

The president is able to recommend legislation to congress, and he may go in person to argue the wisdom of it if he chooses. Mr. Wilson restored an old custom of that sort, which was abandoned by President Jefferson, and I think he was right in doing so. It emphasizes the president's recommendations and focuses the eyes of the people on that which he regards as important to the public welfare, and it puts a greater responsibility on congress to give attention to his suggestions.

The British constitution gives the power of veto to the king, but it has not been exercised for more than two centuries, and were it attempted it would shake the throne. The exercise of the president's veto always rouses eloquence on the part of those who are much disappointed at the defeat of the measure, and the walls of congress not infrequently resound with denunciation of his tyrannical exercise of a kingly prerogative.

But the fact is it has come to be a more frequent characteristic of a republic than of a modern monarchy. For a king or an emperor to interpose a veto to an act of the popular legislature is really to obstruct the people's will, because he was not chosen by their votes, but inherited his royal power. He must indeed be careful in exercising a veto lest he incur a protest and arouse a feeling dangerous to his dynasty.

The case of the president is very different. The constitution established by the people requires the president to withhold his signature from a bill if he disapproves of it and return it with his objections to the house in which it originated, for the president is quite as much the representative of the people as are the members of the two houses.

Indeed, the whole people of the United States is his constituency, and he therefore speaks and acts for them quite as certainly as the members elected from congressional districts or the senators from the states. He is not exercising a kingly power in a veto. He is acting in a representative capacity for the whole people and is preventing a law that he thinks would work to the detriment of the whole country. On this account the roar of the young lions of congress against a veto never frightens the occupant of the White House.—William Howard Taft in Yale Review.

To Make Business a Science.

The science of selling offers a great field for study for the department of commerce and for the many business schools which are springing up in our colleges. Commerce is not mere money getting; it is a science, as banking and law and medicine are sciences. It should be studied as such, for with such study comes not only greater efficiency, but a higher standard of ethics as well. There is no more pressing public service to be done than the discovery of the best ways of reducing the cost of distribution and of elevating business to the standards of a profession.—World's Work.

With us a president is elected for four years, and nothing can get him out of office except his death or his resignation—which never comes—or his impeachment. The certainty of his tenure for four years makes our executive administration a little more rigid and less subject to quick changes of public opinion than in the parliamentary countries. I am inclined to think that our system is a good thing for our country, however much parliamentary government may suit the countries where it is in use.

Of course it has this advantage: In a parliamentary government there is a union between the executive and the legislative branches, and they therefore work together, because those who constitute the executive lead and direct the legislation, whereas in the separation of the great branches of the government with us the president represents the executive, congress the legislative and the courts the judicial branch, and the plan of the men who framed the constitution was to preserve these branches separately.

The president is able to recommend legislation to congress, and he may co in person to argue the wisdom of it if he chooses. Mr. Wilson restored an old custom of that sort, which was abandoned by President Jefferson, and I think he was right in doing so. It emphasizes the president's recommendations and focuses the eyes of the people on that which he regards as important to the public welfare, and it puts a greater responsibility on congress to give attention to his suggestions.

The British constitution gives the power of veto to the king, but it has not been exercised for more than two centuries, and were it attempted it would shake the throne. The exercise of the president's veto always rouses eloquence on the part of those who are much disappointed at the defeat of the measure, and the walls of congress not infrequently resound with denunciation of his tyrannical exercise of a kingly prerogative.

But the fact is it has come to be a more frequent characteristic of a republic than of a modern monarchy. For a king or an emperor to interpose a veto to an act of the popular legislature is really to obstruct the people's will, because he was not chosen by their votes, but inherited his royal power. He must indeed be careful in exercising a veto lest he incur a protest and arouse a feeling dangerous to his dynasty.

The case of the president is very different. The constitution established by the people requires the president to withhold his signature from a bill if he disapproves of it and return it with his objections to the house in which it originated. For the president is quite as much the representative of the people as are the members of the two houses.

Indeed, the whole people of the United States is his constituency, and he therefore speaks and acts for them quite as certainly as the members elected from congressional districts or the senators from the states. He is not exercising a kingly power in a veto. He is acting in a representative capacity for the whole people and is preventing a law that he thinks would work to the detriment of the whole country. On this account the roar of the young lions of congress against a veto never frightens the occupant of the White House.—William Howard Taft in Yale Review.

To Make Business a Science.

The science of selling offers a great field for study for the department of commerce and for the many business schools which are springing up in our colleges. Commerce is not mere money getting; it is a science, as banking and law and medicine are sciences. It should be studied as such, for with such study comes not only greater efficiency, but a higher standard of ethics as well. There is no more pressing public service to be done than the discovery of the best ways of reducing the cost of distribution and of elevating business to the standards of a profession.—World's Work.

MAMMOTH CROWD ATTENDS GEO. W. BAKER OBSEQUIES

Touching Services Are Held at Late Home of Deceased and Friends From Far and Near Offer Final Tribute of Respect—Remains Placed in Washington Cemetery—Memento of Late Widely Known and Highly Respected Citizen.

The funeral services of Mr. G. W. Baker, held at the residence Friday afternoon, at half past one o'clock, offered a great testimonial to the sterling business man, wide-awake promoter, and well-known citizen who will be sadly missed in this community as well as in outside interests.

A man prominent in the traction enterprises of central Ohio, and having big business and farming interests in both southern Ohio and this section, representative business and professional men came from Springfield, Columbus, Jackson, Chillicothe, Bainbridge, Beaver, Waverly, South Charleston and every town of this section to show him honor.

The large home, with its many rooms affording the capacity of a church, was quite inadequate to the enormous crowd which poured in from the noon hour until the opening of the services. It was a gathering which spoke volumes for the esteem in which Mr. Baker had been generally held, and the magnificent flowers which surrounded the handsome casket, were no less in the nature of a tribute.

Rev. T. W. Locke, of Columbus, and Rev. F. E. Ross, pastor of Grace church, jointly conducted a most impressive service.

A male quartet, Dr. Howell, Messrs. Ireland, Hicks and Burch, sang "Jesus Lover of My Soul", in opening.

Both ministers made remarks that were deeply expressive of appreciation of Mr. Baker.

Rev. Ross treated of the general aspects; of the effect that the death of a man of the character and standing of Mr. Baker had upon the community and of the loss it means to have such a man taken away.

He emphasized the full life which had been Mr. Baker's in his association with both business and religious life, and that the great thing after all, was not the reputation or wealth a man has, but what he really is. Judged by his aims and motives and the spirit, which characterized him in all his relations, Mr. Baker was a man of unusual strength and the whole community feels his loss.

Rev. Locke, who had been Mr. and Mrs. Baker's pastor in former bereavement and between whom a particularly warm friendship existed, spoke more from the intimate personal viewpoint.

Rev. Locke, with beautiful appreciation, touched upon the personal elements in Mr. Baker's character, its capacity for loyal friendship, tenderness and sympathy. He treated of George W. Baker as the business man, the Christian gentleman and the home man, emphasizing most of all the devotion of the husband and father and the happy home-life of the family.

The following memoir was read:

MEMOIR.
George W. Baker was born April 11, 1863, in Beaver, Pike county, Ohio, and died at his home in Washington Court House, November 17, 1914, in the fifty-second year of his age. He was the son of David and Margaret Baker, being the third of eight children.

He was united in marriage to Miss Comfort E. Alvin, May 9, 1880, at Beaver, Ohio. To them were born six children, of whom five survive, Mrs. Margaret Baughn, South Charleston, Ohio; Mrs. Leona Roderick, Jackson, Ohio; Floyd, of South Charleston; Damon and Charlotte remaining at home.

The son Hiram died December 23, 1908, aged 25 years.

The deceased is survived by two sisters, Mrs. O. H. Robbins of Washington C. H., and Mrs. E. J. Fultz of Leesburg, Ohio; also two brothers, Dan Baker of Springfield, Ohio, and Fred Baker, of Sterling, Ill. He leaves also five grandchildren. He was preceded in death by his brothers John and Jacob, and a sister, Mrs. Samuel Sulzeberger.

Brother Baker experienced a clear and happy conversion, and united with the Methodist Episcopal church in February, 1904, at Beaver, Ohio, during the pastorate of Rev. J. M. Stewart. Moving to this city in 1906, he and his family transferred their membership to Grace church, where it has since remained.

His religious faith quickened his natural geniality and buoyancy of spirit. To him the Christian life meant service, quiet, unselfish, every day obedience to the Master's call. Occupied with important business interests, he nevertheless did not forget the interests of the kingdom of God. Strong in his convictions, simple in his faith, broad in his sympathies, tender in his feelings and wholesome in his life, Bro. Baker's departure is an irreparable loss to the community. All classes of our people join in paying tribute to his memory, and in assurances of deepest sympathy and earnest prayer.

The quartet closed the services with "Asleep in Jesus."

A long funeral cortege wended from the home to the Washington cemetery, where all that was mortal was placed in the mausoleum, the first crypt to be filled in the new structure.

Acting as pall-bearers were the sons, Lloyd and Damon Baker, sons-in-law, Will E. Roderick, of Jackson; Chas. Baughn, of South Charleston; brothers, Mr. Fred B. Baker, of Linden, Ill., and Dan Baker, of Springfield.

The floral offerings were in great number and handsome design, from relatives and friends, far and near, among business firms and lodges represented by very elaborate pieces were the Timmons-Harmouth Lumber Co., Chillicothe; employees of Springfield and Xenia R. R. Co.; Springfield, Troy, Piqua R. R. Co.;

COLLISION ENDS IN DAMAGE SUIT

A suit growing out of an accident on the Chillicothe pike last Saturday night, was filed in Justice Craig's court Saturday, by E. Jansen, who asks $20 damages from Harvey Culp as a result of damages sustained by his automobile when it struck a horse owned by Culp. He is represented by Attorney F. A. Chaffin.

Culp and the man who was with him came to this city Saturday with the avowed purpose of filing suit against Mr. Jansen as a result of the latter's automobile striking and injuring the Culp horse so that it was later killed. At three o'clock the suit had not been filed.

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT

The Church of Christ announces an event of more than ordinary importance and interest. The whole of American Christendom has entered into a united missionary campaign for both home and foreign missions. It is inspired by the Laymen's Missionary Movement and the attempt is to secure the enlistment of the whole church in the task of taking the world for Christ.

The first actual step in this united work was the every member canvass in the churches. Some churches have already entered the campaign with gratifying results. Others are preparing to take it up next March.

A party of specialists are touring Ohio in the interest of this work and will be with the church at Washington C. H. Thursday, November 26 to hold two sessions, morning and afternoon. The party consists of A. McLean, president Foreign Christian Missionary society, Cincinnati; Martin L. Pierce dean of Phillips Bible Institute, Canton; I. J. Cahill, secretary Ohio Christian Missionary society and Mary A. Lyon, secretary Ohio C. W. B. M.

A cordial invitation is extended to the other churches of the city and county to attend and receive the benefit of this conference.

TROUBLE RESULTS EARLY THIS MORNING

A little excitement occurred at the second hand store of Harvey Blanton on North Fayette street, early Saturday morning, when Blanton ejected Alton Thomas from his place of business.

The trouble came on over a stove deal, Thomas making accusations which were offensive to Blanton. Thomas later filed an affidavit against Blanton, charging assault, and when the case came up before Mayor Coffey the stove trouble was adjusted and the case dismissed.

"Considering the conditions brought about by the state quarantine the sale was one of the best ever held in Washington. We were surprised and more than pleased with the result," said one of these Saturday.

During the sale about 200 head of horses were sold—horses of all kinds—and good figures were secured for them. The majority of the selling was to nearby buyers. The last day of the sale consisted of an exclusive offering of draft horses and nearly all of these went to Fayette county purchasers.

The Greatest War Picture Ever Made

Lay Down Your Arms

A stupendous film dramatization of the World-Famous war novel by the late Baroness Bertha Van Suttner, winner of a Nobel Peace Prize—in four stirring parts.

The Picture With a Purpose

By portraying the terrible horrors of the battlefield and the disastrous effects of war upon the families of combatants, this photoplay is the most powerful argument for universal peace ever advanced. After six months' preparation, by an odd coincidence, the picture was completed just when the great European war began. It is therefore extraordinarily timely now that all interest is centered upon war.

ETHYL BARRYMORE in THE NIGHTINGALE

SAVED BY A TAIL

An Incident of the Perilous Times in Paris in 1848.

On Feb. 24, 1848, when Paris was disturbed by the revolutionary mob, a Captain Prebols was sent by the government with orders to be delivered to the leaders of the troops that were defending the threatened points in various parts of the city. It was a dangerous undertaking, for the bitterness of the people against the government was intense.

Before starting out Captain Prebols was warned to take the greatest care if he valued his life, but he took the warnings lightly and said: "If you fellows knew my black horse as well as I know him you wouldn't worry about me. That horse has carried me through thick and thin."

The black horse of which the gallant captain was so proud was indeed a beautiful animal. But there was something very extraordinary about his tail. It was long and bushy, but it never moved or twitched, except with the movement of the animal's body.

When Prebols arrived in the disturbed section of the city he fearlessly delivered his message. He met with no resistance from the crowds in the streets until he reached the Place Vendome. Here a great crowd of revolutionists had gathered. One seized the captain's horse and cried in a fierce voice: "Hold! What message are you carrying?"

The captain refused to answer. "Put a bullet through him and get that message!" bawled out the man in a commanding voice. He was evidently a leader of the mob.

At this point the captain determined that quick action alone would save him from violence at the hands of the crowd. Quick as a flash he wheeled his horse and dashed off. Several bullets flew after him, but they went wild and then suddenly ceased altogether. He looked round and saw the mob crowding round one of their number, who held something in his hand. And then his eyes fell on the back of his horse and his heart sank in dismay.

It seems that as he whirled his horse about several men seized hold of the animal. But the powerful creature threw them all except one, a lad of fourteen, who seized the horse's tail. That tail was the object of interest that had caused the shooting to stop, for it had come off. There stood the boy, in the middle of the road, with his feet spread apart and an expression of grim determination on his face as he tightly clutched the fleeing creature's tail. The mob saw the humor of the situation and burst into a roar of laughter.

The explanation came out later. It seems that Captain Prebols' horse, while perfect in every other particular, did not have a very good tail, and so his master had an artificial one made for him. No doubt that artificial tail, and that alone, saved Captain Prebols' life.

Pleasant Outlook.

"Well, dearest, I'll speak to your father tomorrow. You might put him in a good temper for me."

"Yes, I'll be so beastly obstinate that he'll be positively grateful to you for taking me off his hands."—London Opinion.

Bulgaria Uneasy Over Austria's Advance Into Serbia.

BALKAN STATES THREATENED

Great Britain Announces Extension of Mine Fields For the Protection of the East Coast Ports—Subscriptions to the Big War Loan Coming In. Tea Exportation to Belligerents Prohibited by Decree.

London, Nov. 21.—The advance by Austria into Serbia is creating uneasiness in Bulgaria as to the future of the Balkan states. The question as to whether Bulgaria should remain neutral or throw in her lot with the allies was discussed in the sobranje. Leaders of the democratic party suggested that the allies should be consulted as to their intentions regarding the future of the Balkans. Italy, too, has been affected by the Austrian advance, and her ambassadors at the European capitals have been called to confer with the cabinet. Marquis Imperiali, Italian ambassador to Great Britain, will leave for Rome today.

In order to prevent supplies of tea reaching Germany from England, through neutral countries, Great Britain has prohibited its exportation to European countries except those of the allies, Spain and Portugal. Since the outbreak of the war the exports of tea to Holland have reached enormous proportions.

The admiralty has taken further steps for the protection of the east coast ports by the extension of the mine field. This seems to give some support to the rumors prevalent for several days that a German raid on the east coast is expected. In fact, it is generally believed here that if Germany is balked in her other designs, she will attempt to attack England, no matter how desperate such an expedition is considered. Subscriptions to the war loan continue to come in and it was reported unofficially that the applications aggregated between $3,000,000,000 and $3,500,000,000. The loan calls for only $1,750,000,000.

QUERIES ARE UNANSWERED

Washington, Nov. 21.—No further report on the Smyrna incident has been received at the state and navy departments. That the state of communication is not the reason for the delay in the report asked from Captain Decker, commanding the Tennessee, became known when Secretary Daniels said he received from Captain Decker an acknowledgment of receipt of a message sent him from Washington several hours after Secretary Daniels had requested the message sent. This telegram instructed Captain Decker to take no action which might embarrass the United States without specific instructions from Washington, and was also sent to Captain Oman of the North Carolina. Both officers were instructed to acknowledge receipt of these dispatches and both have done so, though Mr. Daniels' cable asking for a further report from Captain Decker remains unanswered. Secretary Daniels is of opinion that Captain Decker is trying to get more information from Smyrna or Constantinople before sending his report.

FLOODS HALT STRUGGLE IN WEST FLANDERS

Much Illness Noted In the Trenches In Belgium.

Paris, Nov. 21.—The onfall of winter has benumbed the energies of allies and Germans in Belgium and northern France. Snow is falling. Gales from the sea have driven tide-water far inland, widening the district inundated by the allies. Infantry operations are well nigh impossible. The official reports issued by the French government show that the elements have beaten for the time being both the men in gray and the men in khaki. There was an artillery combat south of Ypres, along a position held by the British, but the Germans did not press the attack.

It is officially announced that the Germans were forced to abandon heavy guns because of the spreading waters. Near Ramscapele the allies salvaged two large mortars which the Germans had been unable to remove. Both sides have lost cannon and automobiles since the flood changed the character of the operations. There is no doubt that bad weather has increased the exhaustion of the troops and there is much illness in the trenches.

The lull extends all along the west flank from the Lys to Soissons and Tracy-le-Val, and along the old center where the battle is now ten weeks old. There is actually no more indication today of a decisive turn in the conflict than there was the week after General Von Kluck's army took root on the hills of Champagne. Eastward, however, in the forests of the Argonne, in the region of Verdun, between Verdun and Toul and across the border in Alsace, there are signs of increasing activity.

Motion Pictures to Show Crusade Against Plague.

Columbus, Nov. 21.—At a conference of state and federal men concerned in fighting the foot and mouth disease it was decided to have motion pictures taken of all the activities in connection with the present crusade. These will include inspecting herds, the nature of the disease, appraising condemned cattle, digging trenches, the actual killing of diseased cattle, the burial of them and the fumigation of premises.

The significance of the motion picture idea is the quiet admission of the authorities that in some localities, at least, Ohio is in for a siege that will last a year. To better promote the campaign against the disease, a program of statewide education is contemplated, and these pictures will be shown for the first time at the annual agricultural meeting in this city Jan. 12 and 14.

In order to make the meetings still more valuable in the cause of the present epizootic, Dr. A. D. Melvin, the federal expert in charge of the entire United States campaign, has been asked to be present and to speak.

Reports received by Dr. M. Ims, federal inspector in charge, told of eight additional herds found to be infected. These were: Two in Huron, two in Erie, two in Richland and one each in Mahoning and Knox counties. The combined herds have a total of 434 head of live stock which are under death warrants.

WOMAN SUES FOR 25 CENTS

Cleveland, Nov. 21.—Suit for 25 cents for the death of her husband was filed by Mrs. Helen Szalonitan against Charles Leib, an employee of Theodore Kundts. Mrs. Szalonitan says her husband was a member of a benefit society whose members are to pay 25 cents each to a widow on the death of her husband. The members refused to pay and the suit against Leib is to determine whether the money can be collected from the members.

SAVE YOUR HEART.

Don't Crowd Extra Work Upon It, as It Has Enough to Do.

Heart strain may be brought on by many common, thoughtless actions of everyday life, as, for instance, running to catch a train. In an actual experiment made on a person with a healthy heart before the run the heart rate was seventy-six per minute and the heart was doing 152 foot pounds of work a minute; after the run the heart rate was 180 and the heart was doing 300 foot pounds a minute, an increase of 228 foot pounds. Great strain may also be imposed upon the heart by ascending stairs hurriedly.

Not only physical exertion, but emotions, affect the heart. "Keep your temper" is good medical advice, for when a person is angry the work his heart does may be increased as much as seventy-two foot pounds a minute. Even after the emotion or exertion has ceased the heart continues to do extra work for some time before it gets back to its normal rate.

The amount of extra work the heart can do is surprising. Tests have shown that in riding a bicycle at a rapid pace up a 10 per cent grade for half a mile the extra work imposed on the heart would be sufficient to lift one and one-eighth tons one foot.

There are various ways by which we might save the heart work. As the heart beats less rapidly when we are at rest we could save it 876,000 foot pounds of work a year by going to bed two hours earlier every night. Lying down half an hour daily would mean an annual saving of 219,000 foot pounds; an hour's rest every Sunday would save 62,400 foot pounds, and by staying in bed all day Sunday the annual saving would be nearly a million foot pounds.—Detroit Free Press.

No rougher customer ever occupied a throne than Serbia's first ruler, Black George. Except when under the influence of wine or the smell of gunpowder, he was habitually moody and dangerous to cross. When his aged father thwarted his wishes he drew a pistol and shot him through the head. When his mother tried to cheat him over a beehive he bonneted her with it and stalked off, regardless of her shrieks of pain. Black George was admirable as an administrator, scrupulously just in all his dealings—outside of the family circle—and as brave and disinterested a patriot as ever lived. After brilliant victories he would return to his squalid home, empty handed, and resume the uneventful life of a pig breeder.

Bulgaria Uneasy Over Austria's Advance Into Serbia.

BALKAN STATES THREATENED

Great Britain Announces Extension of Mine Fields For the Protection of the East Coast Ports—Subscriptions to the Big War Loan Coming In. Tea Exportation to Belligerents Prohibited by Decree.

London, Nov. 21.—The advance by Austria into Serbia is creating uneasiness in Bulgaria as to the future of the Balkan states. The question as to whether Bulgaria should remain neutral or throw in her lot with the allies was discussed in the sobranje. Leaders of the democratic party suggested that the allies should be consulted as to their intentions regarding the future of the Balkans. Italy, too, has been affected by the Austrian advance, and her ambassadors at the European capitals have been called home to confer with the cabinet. Marquis Imperiali, Italian ambassador to Great Britain, will leave for Rome today.

In order to prevent supplies of tea reaching Germany from England, through neutral countries, Great Britain has prohibited its exportation to European countries except those of the allies, Spain and Portugal. Since the outbreak of the war the exports of tea to Holland have reached enormous proportions.

The admiralty has taken further steps for the protection of the east coast ports by the extension of the mine field. This seems to give some support to the rumors prevalent for several days that a German raid on the east coast is expected. In fact, it is generally believed here that if Germany is balked in her other designs, she will attempt to attack England, no matter how desperate such an expedition is considered. Subscriptions to the war loan continue to come in and it was reported unofficially that the applications aggregated between $3,000,000,000 and $3,500,000,000. The loan calls for only $1,750,000,000.

QUERIES ARE UNANSWERED

Washington, Nov. 21.—No further report on the Smyrna incident has been received at the state and navy departments. That the state of communication is not the reason for the delay in the report asked from Captain Decker, commanding the Tennessee, became known when Secretary Daniels said he received from Captain Decker an acknowledgment of receipt of a message sent him from Washington several hours after Secretary Daniels had requested the message sent. This telegram instructed Captain Decker to take no action which might embarrass the United States without specific instructions from Washington, and was also sent to Captain Oman of the North Carolina. Both officers were instructed to acknowledge receipt of these dispatches and both have done so, though Mr. Daniels' cable asking for a further report from Captain Decker remains unanswered. Secretary Daniels is of opinion that Captain Decker is trying to get more information from Smyrna or Constantinople before sending his report.

FLOODS HALT STRUGGLE IN WEST FLANDERS

Much illness noted in the Trenches in Belgium.

Paris, Nov. 21.—The onfall of winter has benumbed the energies of allies and Germans in Belgium and northern France. Snow is falling. Gales from the sea have driven tide-water far inland, widening the district inundated by the allies. Infantry operations are well nigh impossible. The official reports issued by the French government show that the elements have bested for the time being both the men in gray and the men in khaki. There was an artillery combat south of Ypres, along a position held by the British, but the Germans did not press the attack.

Life in the Falklands.

The inhabitants of the Falkland Islands are a prosperous race, noted for their hospitality. Living is cheap in the islands, and all kinds of English fruits and vegetables abound there. There are, however, two great drawbacks to life in the Falklands. The climate is never really warm and fires have to be kept up all the year round. Servants are procured with difficulty. Most people import them from England, but as English girls are frequently snapped up and married as soon as they land they have to sign an agreement to remain in service three years. If they break it in order to marry the husband has to pay the passage out from England of another servant to replace his wife.—London Chronicle.

HAMMERING WEDGE TOWARD WARSAW

German Army Still Advancing In Russian Poland.

BERLIN REPORTS PROGRESS

Finds Reason to Believe That the Retreating Enemy Will Make a Stand Between the Vistula and the Warthe Against a Frontal Attack—Military Critics Venture an Estimate of Situation in Poland.

London, Nov. 21.—The significant news from the eastern battle front is that the Russians are continuing their attack in East Prussia and in southwest Poland. These offensive movements could not be maintained if the Germans had smashed the Russian center in their new and powerful advance from Thorn through northwest Poland.

This estimate of the situation is made by military critics from analyses of the official Russian and German reports, supplemented by unofficial news from Petrograd and Berlin. There is no doubt whatever that the genius of General Von Hindenburg has found the men and the method to endanger gravely the whole Russian line, but it is equally certain that the Germans have so far been able only to press back the Russian center and not to break it. So long as Grand Duke Nicholas can hold a defensive position between the Warthe and the Vistula, keeping his line from the Baltic to the Carpathians intact, although far from straight, military writers concede that he can continue his invasion of East Prussia and maintain his advance against Cracow.

The German government claims no vital success in the operations at the center, and there is no irreconcilable difference between the official German and the official Russian statements. The outstanding feature of the fighting in the most important region, Russian Poland, between Thorn and Warsaw, is that the great battle continues with no decisive result in sight. Upon the outcome of that battle depends whether or not the Russians must withdraw from East Prussia and from Cracow (a necessary outcome of the defeat in northwest Poland), or whether or not the Germans will be able to advance once more to the Vistula and invest Warsaw after driving every Russian soldier from German soil.

Russia states officially that her troops are resisting determinedly in Poland, which is held to be an indication that the retreat has stopped and that the Russians have reached a defense line chosen by the commander-in-chief. The German government states the operations are progressing and finds reason to believe that the Russians will make a stand against a frontal attack. It may be many days before the issue will be determined. A dispatch from Petrograd says that the Germans are renewing their aggressive attack in Russian Poland from the direction of Kalisz, Thorn and Rybin, on both sides of the Vistula. According to information from a high authority in Petrograd, it is apparent that they are trying to drive a wedge toward Warsaw. They are now probably about six miles from Lodz and about twelve miles from Lowicz.

VIENNA CLAIMS MORE SUCCESSES

Washington, Nov. 21.—Austro-German forces in Russian Poland have forced the Russians into battle, which has developed along "the whole front," according to a dispatch from Vienna received at the Austro-Hungarian embassy here. The dispatch said: "Operations of the allies in Russian Poland forced the Russian main force to battle, which developed along whole front. A group of Austro-Hungarians captured 3,000 more prisoners."

Philadelphia, Nov. 21.—With the exception of a half hour, during which Secretary William B. Wilson of the federal department of labor addressed the delegates, the convention of the American Federation of Labor devoted all of the session to the consideration of matters pertaining to jurisdictional disputes.

Secretary Wilson in his speech said there could be no permanent industrial peace that is not based on industrial justice, and he also told the delegates that the most effective agency to promote the welfare of those who toil was the trade unions of the country. He reiterated his declaration made at the Seattle convention of the federation, that every title to property is a law-created and a law-protected title.

Supreme Court May Render Decision Next Tuesday.

Columbus, Nov. 21.—Whether a writ of mandamus may issue against an official through an implied authority, or whether such authority must be given him expressly by statute, is the question on which hinges the proposition for a recount of the vote cast on the home rule and prohibition amendments in the four most populous counties of Ohio, as demanded by the Anti-Saloon league.

The league representatives concede there is no law specifically authorizing the secretary of state to order a recount. That an implied authority, however, is given the secretary of state to order a recount, and that such is sufficient for mandamus to issue, was urged before the supreme court by Wayne B. Wheeler, state superintendent and attorney for the Anti-Saloon league.

That mandamus may issue against an official only when he refuses to obey the mandates of expressed legal provisions was urged by Attorney General Hogan and former Governor Harmon, who appeared before the court to defend the secretary of state in his refusal to order a recount. They argued that there is no expressed legal provision imposed upon the secretary of state to make the recount, and for this reason he is without authority to order or make a canvass of the vote or the court to order him to make it.

Former Governor Harmon declared the suit was full of ulterior motives and intended mainly to influence public opinion. Arguments in the case were finished and the court may render a decision Tuesday.

YOUR OWN PORTRAIT.

How Do You Suppose It Is Verbally Drawn by Your Friends?

Did you ever experience the sensation of hearing yourself physically described by another who did not happen to know that you were within earshot? If so, you may have heard yourself pictured as "that short legged man with the scraggly gray mustache, you know."

You may have been pained or amused. It all depends upon your sense of humor or the fitness of things. But do not despair at your portrait. Just listen some time to a pair of men when one of them is trying to recall to his companion a third individual, the latter seen perhaps only once years ago by the auditor. The gentleman jogging the other man's memory is likely to sketch the absentee in a few bold strokes something like the following:

"Oh, sure, you remember him—the fellow with long yellow teeth! He parted his hair near his ear, and he had a scar on his chin."

"Now, I do," cheerfully replies the other at this piece of graphic description and then adds his own touch. "He was with a little chap who stuttered and wore big spectacles of tortoise shell."

And the interesting question it brings up is, Why do people, generally speaking, remark defects and singularities rather than perfections and beauties? A man with long yellow teeth might have had fine eyes and a noble head set upon his shoulders, and a begoggled chap with a stammering tongue might have had a Greek profile and an artist's hands.

We are assured that beauty is everywhere, yet people seem to take particular note of the ugly. No doubt it is easier to see the ugly than the beautiful in humanity, but why take the easier way?—New York Sun.

Rosabelle's "Favah."

Never was there a blacker daughter of Africa than was Rosabelle Jackson when, as a girl of but thirteen years, she was taken into the home of Mr. and Mrs. Deene, a childless couple who purposed training Rosabelle into a maid of all work. This they succeeded in doing, and so many admirable traits of character were developed in Rosabelle that they became much attached to the girl, and her affection for them was pronounced. One day when she was nearly thirty years old she came to Mrs. Deene to ask a "favah" of somewhat startling character.

"I wants to ask jess one favah, Mis' Deene," she said. "Dis is de favah. If I do dies befo' you' does I want de favah ob havin' you put a tombstone ovah my grave an' have on it, 'Rosabelle Jackson, only chile of Mistah an' Missus Abner Deene.'" — New York Post.

Newspaper advertising not only talks but it emphasizes; it has the undivided attention of the reader and covers a field no salesman can hope to reach. There are many styles in newspaper advertising and the small announcement, which costs only five cents, is just as effective in its way as the larger one, which costs proportionately more. The benefits to be derived can not be measured by the size of the ad, for the very good reason that the small, inexpensive announcement invariably proves effective. SISTER: READ MY FREE OFFER!

I am a woman. I know a woman's trials. I know her need of sympathy and help. If you, my sister, are unhappy because of ill-health, if you feel unfit for household duties, social pleasures, or daily employment, write and tell me just how you suffer, and ask for my free ten days' trial of a home treatment suited to your needs. Men cannot understand women's sufferings. What we women know from experience, we know better than any man. I want to tell you how to cure yourself at home at a cost of about 12 cents a week.

If you suffer from women's peculiar ailments causing pain in the head, back, or bowels, feeling of weight and dragging-down sensation, falling or displacement of pelvic organs, causing kidney and bladder weakness or constipation and piles, painful or irregular periods, catarrhal conditions and discharges, extreme nervousness, depressed spirits, melancholy, desire to cry, fear of something evil about to happen, creeping feeling along the spine, palpitation, hot flashes, weariness, sallow complexion with dark circles under the eyes, pain in the left breast, or a general feeling that life is not worth living.

I INVITE YOU TO SEND TODAY FOR MY FREE TEN DAYS' TREATMENT

and learn how these ailments can be easily and surely conquered at home without the dangers and expense of an operation. When you are cured, and able to enjoy life again, you can pass the good word along to some other sufferer. My home treatment is for young or old. To Mothers of Daughters, I will explain how to overcome green sickness (chlorosis), irregularities, headaches, and lassitude in young women and restore them to plumpness and health. Tell me if you are worried about your daughter. Remember, it costs you nothing to give my home treatment a ten days' trial, and does not interfere with daily work. If health is worth asking for, then accept my generous offer and write for the free treatment, including my illustrated booklet, "Woman's Own Medical Adviser." I will send all in plain wrappers post-paid. To save time, you can cut out this offer, mark your feelings, and return to me. Send today, as you may not see this offer again. Address,

HAMMERING WEDGE TOWARD WARSAW

German Army Still Advancing In Russian Poland.

BERLIN REPORTS PROGRESS

Finds Reason to Believe That the Retreating Enemy Will Make a Stand Between the Vistula and the Warthe Against a Frontal Attack—Military Critics Venture an Estimate of Situation in Poland.

London, Nov. 21.—The significant news from the eastern battle front is that the Russians are continuing their attack in East Prussia and in south-west Poland. These offensive movements could not be maintained if the Germans had smashed the Russian center in their new and powerful advance from Thorn through northwest Poland.

This estimate of the situation is made by military critics from analyses of the official Russian and German reports, supplemented by unofficial news from Petrograd and Berlin. There is no doubt whatever that the genius of General Von Hindenburg has found the men and the method to endanger gravely the whole Russian line, but it is equally certain that the Germans have so far been able only to press back the Russian center and not to break it. So long as Grand Duke Nicholas can hold a defensive position between the Warthe and the Vistula, keeping his line from the Baltic to the Carpathians intact, although far from straight, military writers concede that he can continue his invasion of East Prussia and maintain his advance against Cracow.

The German government claims no vital success in the operations at the center, and there is no irreconcilable difference between the official German and the official Russian statements. The outstanding feature of the fighting in the most important region, Russian Poland, between Thorn and Warsaw, is that the great battle continues with no decisive result in sight. Upon the outcome of that battle depends whether or not the Russians must withdraw from East Prussia and from Cracow (a necessary outcome of the defeat in northwest Poland), or whether or not the Germans will be able to advance once more to the Vistula and invest Warsaw after driving every Russian soldier from German soil.

Russia states officially that her troops are resisting determinedly in Poland, which is held to be an indication that the retreat has stopped and that the Russians have reached a defense line chosen by the commander-in-chief. The German government states the operations are progressing and finds reason to believe that the Russians will make a stand against a frontal attack. It may be many days before the issue will be determined. A dispatch from Petrograd says that the Germans are renewing their aggressive attack in Russian Poland from the direction of Kalisz, Thorn and Kypin, on both sides of the Vistula. According to information from a high authority in Petrograd, it is apparent that they are trying to drive a wedge toward Warsaw. They are now probably about six miles from Lodz and about twelve miles from Lowicz.

VIENNA CLAIMS MORE SUCCESSES

Washington, Nov. 21.—Austro-German forces in Russian Poland have forced the Russians into battle, which has developed along "the whole front," according to a dispatch from Vienna received at the Austro-Hungarian embassy here. The dispatch said: "Operations of the allies in Russian Poland forced the Russian main force to battle, which developed along whole front. A group of Austro-Hungarians captured 3,000 more prisoners."

GERMAN SHIPS HURRY AWAY

Lima, Peru, Nov. 21.—The German steamer Luxor of the Kosmos line, with 3,000 tons of coal on board, has suddenly left Coronel, Chile, without having received clearance papers. The German steamer Memphis has also secretly left Sandy Point. The Chilean authorities have ordered the capture of the Luxor.

LAUDS THE TRADES UNIONS

Philadelphia, Nov. 21.—With the exception of a half hour, during which Secretary William B. Wilson of the federal department of labor addressed the delegates, the convention of the American Federation of Labor devoted all of the session to the consideration of matters pertaining to jurisdictional disputes.

Secretary Wilson in his speech said there could be no permanent industrial peace that is not based on industrial justice, and he also told the delegates that the most effective agency to promote the welfare of those who toil was the trade unions of the country. He reiterated his declaration made at the Seattle convention of the federation, that every title to property is a law-created and a law-protected title.

ARGUMENT IS FINISHED BY WETS AND DRYS

Supreme Court May Render Decision Next Tuesday.

Columbus, Nov. 21.—Whether a writ of mandamus may issue against an official through an implied authority, or whether such authority must be given him expressly by statute, is the question on which hinges the proposition for a recount of the vote cast on the home rule and prohibition amendments in the four most populous counties of Ohio, as demanded by the Anti-Saloon league.

The league representatives concede there is no law specifically authorizing the secretary of state to order a recount. That an implied authority, however, is given the secretary of state to order a recount, and that such is sufficient for mandamus to issue, was urged before the supreme court by Wayne B. Wheeler, state superintendent and attorney for the Anti-Saloon league.

That mandamus may issue against an official only when he refuses to obey the mandates of expressed legal provisions was urged by Attorney General Hogan and former Governor Harmon, who appeared before the court to defend the secretary of state in his refusal to order a recount. They argued that there is no expressed legal provision imposed upon the secretary of state to make the recount, and for this reason he is without authority to order or make a canvass of the vote or the court to order him to make it.

Former Governor Harmon declared the suit was full of ulterior motives and intended mainly to influence public opinion. Arguments in the case were finished and the court may render a decision Tuesday.

OHIOAN IS A BRITISH PRISONER

Columbus, Nov. 2.—In an effort to secure the release of Herbert Corey, European war correspondent, formerly of Columbus, Senator O'Gorman of New York conferred with the state department at Washington, according to a dispatch from New York. Mr. Corey is a prisoner at Aldershot, widely known military camp in England. Corey is a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan university.

New York, Nov. 21.—Theodore Roosevelt's birthplace, 28 East Twenty-ninth street, is to be sold by the sheriff at auction foreclosure proceedings.

YOUR OWN PORTRAIT.

How Do You Suppose It Is Verbally Drawn by Your Friends?

Did you ever experience the sensation of hearing yourself physically described by another who did not happen to know that you were within earshot? If so, you may have heard yourself pictured as "that short legged man with the scraggly gray mustache, you know."

You may have been pained or amused. It all depends upon your sense of humor or the fitness of things. But do not despair at your portrait. Just listen some time to a pair of men when one of them is trying to recall to his companion a third individual, the latter seen perhaps only once years ago by the auditor. The gentleman joggling the other man's memory is likely to sketch the absentee in a few bold strokes something like the following:

"Oh, sure, you remember him—the fellow with long yellow teeth! He parted his hair near his ear, and he had a scar on his chin."

"Now, I do," cheerfully replies the other at this piece of graphic description and then adds his own touch. "He was with a little chap who stuttered and wore big spectacles of tortoise shell."

And the interesting question it brings up is, Why do people, generally speaking, remark defects and singularities rather than perfections and beauties? A man with long yellow teeth might have had fine eyes and a noble head set upon his shoulders, and a begoggled chap with a stammering tongue might have had a Greek profile and an artist's hands.

We are assured that beauty is everywhere, yet people seem to take particular note of the ugly. No doubt it is easier to see the ugly than the beautiful in humanity, but why take the easier way?—New York Sun.

Rosabelle's "Favah."

Never was there a blacker daughter of Africa than was Rosabelle Jackson when, as a girl of but thirteen years, she was taken into the home of Mr. and Mrs. Deene, a childless couple who purposed training Rosabelle into a maid of all work. This they succeeded in doing, and so many admirable traits of character were developed in Rosabelle that they became much attached to the girl, and her affection for them was pronounced. One day when she was nearly thirty years old she came to Mrs. Deene to ask a "favah" of somewhat startling character.

"I wants to ask jess one favah, Mis' Deene," she said. "Dis is de favah. If I do dies befo' you' does I want de favah ob havin' you put a tombstone ovah my grave an' have on it 'Rosabelle Jackson, only chile of Mistah an' Missus Abner Deene'." — New York Post.

Bitter Lady Lytton.

In "Unpublished Letters of Lady Bulwer Lytton to A. E. Chalon, R. A." the editor slips in the following when referring to S. C. Hall's impressions of Lady Bulwer Lytton:

"Mrs. Hall was Irish, and Lady Lytton had no partiality for her compatriots. On one occasion her husband entertained Daniel O'Connell and other Irish members at dinner, and S. C. Hall relates, 'The next day I saw Mrs. Bulwer directing some arrangements in the dining room, which she told me she was fumigating in order to get rid of the brogue.'"

Tiger-like Cat.

Although he's no bigger than an ordinary house cat, the dasyure of the South American jungles is strong and fierce. He has the temper of a tiger pent up in a soft coated, speckled body of tomat size. Good fighter that he is, the dasyure never fights for his food, for his chief subsistence is the ant and other small insects, but when attacked by a man the latter very often gets the worst of it.—Wisconsin State Journal.

Newspaper Advertising

Goes direct to the people and the people constitute the buying public. Newspaper advertising not only talks but it emphasizes; it has the undivided attention of the reader and covers a field no salesman can hope to reach. There are many styles in newspaper advertising and the small announcement, which costs only five cents, is just as effective in its way as the larger one, which costs proportionately more. The benefits to be derived can not be measured by the size of the ad, for the very good reason that the small, inexpensive announcement invariably proves effective. Newspaper advertising costs from five cents up to any price the advertiser desires to pay.

WORDS OF PRAISE FOR REV. MILLER

Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman's testimonial as to Singing Evangelist Frank A. Miller who comes here next week, Wednesday to conduct meetings at East End Chapel, is a strong one. Mr. Miller was associated with Dr. Chapman in the great evangelistic campaigns conducted recently in the largest American cities. He is a very gifted man, being able to both preach and sing the Gospel, and through chalk talks, portray if for the eye. He will sing many hymns of his own composition. Of him Dr. Chapman says:

"I have known Mr. Miller for years. He is one of the best men I know. Of all the evangelists in our Philadelphia campaign, I believe that none were more successful than Mr. Miller. He has uplifted Christians and led hundreds to Christ. In addition to his ability as a preacher he is the sweetest singer I know in the work."

Evangelist Miller comes to the East End Chapel through the courtesy of the Synod of Ohio, in which state he is to work this year. There will be evangelistic rallies preparatory to Mr. Miller's coming, Sunday and Monday evenings.

CENTRAL GATHERS SUNNYSIDE'S SCALP

The Central eleven added another laurel to its trophies Friday when it defeated Sunnyside's aggregation of scrappers in a hot, fast fight. This with past victories puts Central right up close to the top in the average column and it is wisely predicted that there will be "sompin' doin'" when it stacks up against Cherry Hill's squad, the leader this season, on the gridiron of the local grade schools.

Central won from Sunnyside by one touchdown. The score was 19 to 13. Dunlap, Central's fullback, was the particularly bright star of the game, scoring all of Central's three touchdowns with the aid of well regulated interference. Anderson kicked the only goal scored by Central. Quarterback Rodgers and Halfback Melvin were the chief attractions on the Sunnyside line-up. Melvin scored one of the touchdowns after a 45-yard run. Rauh scored the other with a fumbled ball. Melvin kicked the only goal.

Central and Cherry Hill come together Tuesday afternoon.

PREMIUM LIST TO BE ANNOUNCED WITHIN FEW DAYS

The committee in charge of the premium list for the Mid-Winter Grain Festival, to be held at the Y. M. C. A. in this city December 17, 18, 19, is meeting with splendid success in obtaining premiums for the various classes.

The business men have responded with a liberality that is highly commendable, and the premium list will, in all probability, be the greatest ever offered in the county, and will attract an exceptionally large number of entries.

Growers of classy grain are preparing their exhibits so that when the festival takes place they will consign some of the best grain in the world, and the event is sure to throng the city with visitors.

Within the next few days the premium lists will be ready for distribution, and their appearance will be awaited with deep interest by the hundreds who are interested in the event.

WORDS OF PRAISE FOR REV. MILLER

Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman's testimonial as to Singing Evangelist Frank A. Miller who comes here next week, Wednesday to conduct meetings at East End Chapel, is a strong one. Mr. Miller was associated with Dr. Chapman in the great evangelistic campaigns conducted recently in the largest American cities. He is a very gifted man, being able to both preach and sing the Gospel, and through chalk talks, portray it for the eye. He will sing many hymns of his own composition. Of him Dr. Chapman says:

"I have known Mr. Miller for years. He is one of the best men I know. Of all the evangelists in our Philadelphia campaign, I believe that none were more successful than Mr. Miller. He has uplifted Christians and led hundreds to Christ. In addition to his ability as a preacher he is the sweetest singer I know in the work."

Evangelist Miller comes to the East End Chapel through the courtesy of the Synod of Ohio, in which state he is to work this year. There will be evangelistic rallies preparatory to Mr. Miller's coming, Sunday and Monday evenings.

CENTRAL GATHERS SUNNYSIDE'S SCALP

The Central eleven added another laurel to its trophies Friday when it defeated Sunnyside's aggregation of scrappers in a hot, fast fight. This with past victories puts Central right up close to the top in the average column and it is wisely predicted that there will be "sompin doin'" when it stacks up against Cherry Hill's squad, the leader this season, on the gridiron of the local grade schools.

Central won from Sunnyside by one touchdown. The score was 19 to 13. Dunlap, Central's fullback, was the particularly bright star of the game, scoring all of Central's three touchdowns with the aid of well regulated interference. Anderson kicked the only goal scored by Central. Quarterback Rodgers and Halfback Melvin were the chief attractions on the Sunnyside line-up. Melvin scored one of the touchdowns after a 45-yard run. Raub scored the other with a fumbled ball. Melvin kicked the only goal.

Central and Cherry Hill come together Tuesday afternoon.

The line-ups of Friday's games are as follows: Central—Schwartz, lb; Rothrock, lt; Edwards, lg; Green, c; Schwartz, rg; Ryan, rt; Weaver, re; O'Brien, qb; Armstrong, lb; Dunlap, fb; Anderson, rbb. Sunnyside—Bennett, lb; Dunn, lt; Whited, lg; Maddux, c; Lamb, rg; Smith, rt; Raub, re; Rodgers, pb; Melvin, lb; Campbell, fb; Wyre, rbb. Referee, Patton.
